INTRO

Jason knows that his role with our clients on the tax side goes way beyond preparing tax forms. He knows our clients value responsiveness, timeliness, and proactive ideas for their businesses. Finding solutions for our clients is what drives him, because he knows this is what truly matters.

Jason joined Geffen Mesher in 2011 after working at a small local firm. He focuses on providing tax services to clients in the manufacturing, distribution, and technology industries. His specialties include emerging businesses, complex ownership structures and equity based compensation, research and development incentives, state and local tax compliance and consulting, and transactional work including mergers and acquisitions.

Outside of finding value for our clients, Jason enjoys spending time with his wife and daughter. You also might find him getting lost in the outdoors, whether its hiking, backpacking, skiing, traveling, or just exploring and enjoying the fresh air.
